1900

Annual Meeting.

The third annual meeting of the National Farm School was held at the School at Doylestown, on Sunday, September 24th, 1899, Adolph Eichholz, Esq., Chairman of the Executive Committee, presiding. The reading of the minutes of the last annual meeting was dispensed with. Thereupon, the President, Rev. Dr. Krauskopf, read his annual report. At the conclusion of the reading of the President's report, the Executive Committee and Prof. E. E. Faville, Dean of the Institution, presented their reports.

The Committee on Nominations then reported, and the following officers were elected: President, Rev. Dr. Joseph Krauskopf; Vice-President, Ralph Blum; and the following Trustees, to serve for three years in place of those whose terms had expired, Samuel D. Lit, Herman Jonas, Howard A. Loeb and Adolph Grant.

After the reading of letters from prominent persons regretting their inability to be present, the meeting adjourned.

HARRY C. HOCHSTADTER,
Secretary.

DEDICATION OF

I.—THERESA LOEB MEMORIAL GREEN HOUSE.
II.—ZADOK EISNER MEMORIAL LABORATORY.
III.—IDA M. BLOCK MEMORIAL CHAPEL.
IV.—LOUIS I. AARON DAIRY HOUSE.
V.—NEW DAIRY BARN.

After the adjournment of the annual meeting, the most interesting exercises of the day were begun, namely, the dedication of Theresa Loeb Memorial Green House, Zadok Eisner Memorial Laboratory, Ida M. Block Memorial Chapel, Louis I. Aaron Dairy House, and the New Dairy Barn. These proceedings were presided over by Mr. Ralph Blum, Vice-President of the School; and, after the invocation by Rev. Mayer, of Pittsburg, addresses were made by Hon. Samuel H. Ashbridge, Mayor of Philadelphia, Hon. Thomas J. Stewart, Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, Dr. John V. Shoemaker, Surgeon General of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, A. Leo Weil, Esq., of Pittsburg, and Hon. Simon Wolf, of Washington, presenting the various buildings to the Farm School on behalf of the respective owners. The buildings were accepted, on behalf of the Institution, by the Rev. Dr. Krauskopf.

At four o'clock in the afternoon the first services were held in the new chapel, the consecration sermon being delivered by Rev. Dr. Henry Berkowitz.

President's Report.

Members and Friends of the National Farm School:

We are gathered for the third time in annual meeting to review a year's work, to ascertain whether the objects for which the National Farm School was organized have been faithfully kept in view, and whether the success achieved warrants continuance.

Five years ago the National Farm School had no existence, nor were there any funds for its commencement.

Four years ago these one hundred and twenty-two acres of choice agricultural land, with the farm buildings upon them—purchased at the cost of $10,000—became the property of the National Farm School, without one cent of indebtedness upon it.

Three years ago the erection of the school building, to cost another $10,000, was contracted for.

Two years ago the school building, completed and furnished, and the entire plant fairly well equipped with the necessary implements and stock—entirely free from debt—entered upon the objects for which they were acquired, with ten lads, from different parts of the country, as pupils, under a small staff of instructors. The total amount that had been contributed to the school up to that time (not including donations of furniture, stock, implements, books, etc.) amounting to $22,347.

One year ago we witnessed the addition of a greenhouse, a pumping station and a reservoir. The number of pupils had increased from ten to twenty. The staff of instructors had enlarged. An exhibition of products representing the first year's achievements of the pupils, gave evidence that considerable good work had been accomplished. All the financial obligations had been met. The assets were shown to be $31,436.72; the year's income had been $9,497.30; the year's disbursements $9,060, showing a balance in favor of the school of $437.30. The annual membership during the year had grown to twenty life members, thirty friends, seventy-eight patrons, 554 members and thirty-two contributors.

To-day we witness another year's remarkable growth. In addition to the row of poultry houses, erected during the year, and considerable repairs and alterations made on a number of other buildings, five new buildings, erected during the year, will be consecrated to-day:

At Work in the Theresa Loeb Memorial Greenhouse.

Grafting in the Krauskopf Memorial Greenhouse.

1. A Memorial Chapel, erected in memory of Ida M. Block, of Kansas City, Mo., by her husband and family. 2. A Laboratory, erected in memory of Zadok Eisner, by his wife. 3. A Rose House, erected in memory of Theresa Loeb, of Ogontz, Pa., by her family. 4. A Dairy, erected by Mr. and Mrs. Louis I. Aaron, of Pittsburg, Pa. 5. A Dairy Stable.

The institution since our last meeting has passed at a considerable increase of expense into the care of a new dean, a recognized master of agricultural schools, Professor E. E. Faville, formerly at the head of the Horticultural Department of the State College of Kansas, and before that director of the School of Horticulture of Nova Scotia, and a pupil of the Hon. James Wilson, Secretary of Agriculture in President McKinley's Cabinet. The number of pupils has grown to twenty-five, and instruction is given by a competent faculty of four instructors and two assistants. Two more class rooms have been added to the school accommodations, and the comfort of the pupils has been greatly enhanced by the addition of another dormitory, and another washroom. The financial status for the year is as follows:

Income (including value of donations)	$13,383 82
Expenditures	9,153 14
Net gain	$ 4,230 68

Which gain, however, has been expended upon improvements on the Farm.

The membership likewise has increased to the following numbers: twenty-three life members, thirty-two friends, eighty-four patrons, 605 members and twenty-nine contributors.

During the past year the reputation of the school has made remarkable gains. Experts, who have subjected it to careful examination have conferred upon it the highest testimonials. For genuineness of purpose and efficiency of work it has gained for itself the proud distinction of a Model Farm School. Not only its right of existence, but also its absolute necessity is being recognized. The public is learning to understand the difference between the National Farm School and State colleges. The latter, they perceive, have for their main object the providing, near home, a higher education, at considerably smaller expense, to such farmers' sons who cannot afford to attend the distant costly universities. The studies pursued in such State colleges are, for the most part, academic, scientific and commercial. The subject of agriculture, if included in the curriculum, has no greater prominence than is given to chemistry, botany and the like. Ambitious sons of farmers generally attend State colleges to get away from farming instead of being especially fitted for it.

It is clear that there is not a State college in the land that does the work that is pursued at our Farm School. The latter school accepts city boys after their completion of the grammar school course, that is to say, four years earlier than admitted into the State colleges, and starts their training with the very first principles of agriculture. In the second place, tuition at the National Farm School is free to all, and also board and lodging to all such who have not the means to provide these for themselves, while in the State colleges tuition fees and board and lodging must be paid, thus enabling, as a rule, only the wealthier farmers to afford their children the advantages of a higher education. In the third place, at our Farm School, agriculture is taken up at once as a trade. All the other studies are subservient to the main study, which is practical and scientific agriculture, followed out every school day upon the fields, in the green-houses, dairy, barn, laboratory, etc. The National Farm School is not a college—it is a Working School, an Agricultural Manual Training School in which the boys are practically made to earn their own living while pursuing their studies by means of their own handiwork.

The School is and has been a wonderful revelation of the deathlessness of the agricultural instinct within the Jewish people. The fear that had been entertained that the centuries of enforced commercial pursuits of our people had probably killed the Jew's one-time passionate love of agricultnre, had not proven true. Pupils have come to us, of their own accord, for the most part from large cities, where their environments had been furthest possible removed from the seclusion and out-door occupation of agricultural life, and they have not only remained at the school, but have also acquired a liking for it that is most encouraging, and are pursuing their work with a love and zeal that can be truly appreciated only when witnessed during their week-day studies and labors.

There is yet another point that I must briefly touch upon to-day, one that I deem of the utmost importance to our people, at the present time. This institution has not only revealed the deathlessness of Israel's ancient love of agriculture, it has also demonstrated, in the two short years of its existence, that the physical regeneration of vast numbers of our people lies in agriculture. Compulsory crowded city life and in-door pursuits have, in the course of the centuries, produced a gradual physical decline in the one-time unconquerable vitality of our people. The raids that consumption is making, especially among Russian Jewish immigrants in their congested city settlements and sweat-shops, is appalling.

To-day, while upon these grounds, it is well for us to recognize that, praiseworthy as are the efforts for the care and comfort of the consumption-stricken, there is a higher duty—a preventive duty—which we owe to those still spared, yet seriously threatened. It is our most solemn duty to emancipate especially the Russian Jewish immigrants from the bondage of the sweat-shop. It is our most solemn duty to break up the congested settlements in the slums of the large cities, and scatter their population over the vast and fertile acres of our soil, where in return for healthier and more ennobling toil, they may have an abundance of food, health and happiness.

Superior physical vitality alone can check the general decline that is painfully manifesting itself in modern Israel, and such vitality alone can restore its one-time world-conquering mental and spiritual supremacy. And that needed vitality is obtainable only by means of agriculture. The changes it works are really marvelous. Boys who entered our school two years ago, punny and feeble, have within that short space of time developed into sturdy and powerful youths.

It is most deplorable that so large a plant as this, so excellently equipped, so fortunately situated, so successful in its achievements, should be obliged to limit its advantages to but twenty-five boys. There ought to be ten times that number of boys here, and there could be, if our people were but more liberal in their support of this institution. That an institution that has so lofty an aim as this, that has accomplished, within the short time of its existence, as much as this, that extends its benefits especially to graduates of orphan asylums from all parts of the country, should have less than 1000 annual members, among the more than one million of Jews in the United States, is one of the saddest commentaries either on the indifference of our people to their own good, or on the inefficiency of your Board to arouse a wider and more liberal support.

The institution has reached that critical state in its development that makes a more generous support of it absolutely imperative. The running expenses of the school are too large for but twenty-five pupils. A comparatively small increase of expense could educate and keep twice and three times that number of boys. But for a larger number of boys we would require a new dormitory, and larger funds for maintenance, both of which, however, are denied by our present income.

A Class Room in the Main Building.

In the Zadok M. Eisner Memorial Chemical Laboratory.

Our hope of materially increasing our income hereafter by the sale of the products of our new dairy is also not very promising. While there would not be the slightest difficulty in disposing of our dairy products, we are not yet in possession of the necessary herd of superior breed of cows, and of all the necessary equipments for making a superior grade of butter. To acquire them would necessitate the additional outlay of $2500, which sum, not having the money, we would be obliged to borrow, to which, however, there is a strong objection in the Board, the institution having been kept free from mortgages to this day.

The future growth of the institution must therefore depend on:

1. Endowments, legacies and bequests.
2. Generous donations.
3. Large increase of memberships.

Without the one or the other of these we cannot long continue without a mortgage, or without seriously crippling the institution by thwarting its natural growth. I appeal to you, therefore, ladies and gentlemen, most earnestly for such deliberation to-day, and more especially for such aid as may enable your Board to carry on the larger work that is now required by the legitimate development and natural demands of the institution. We believe that, if our past achievement has merited your approval, our present need is worthy of a more generous response by you in the future. These fertile acres—capable of choicest harvests, these dozen buildings—capable of pulsating from early morn till late at night with the heart-beats of noblest agricultural life, dozens of capable and well-deserving boys—wasting away in life-sapping city pursuits, the future of thousands and tens of thousands of our race, await your answer. Faith in the excellence of the cause bids me to be of good cheer and good hope. You will give your answer, and your answer will be visible, possibly a year hence, in an increased number of pupils, and in increased means for their keeping and training.

Respectfully submitted,

JOS. KRAUSKOPF, President.

* NOTE. (The donations in this report do not include the amounts contributed by Mrs. Eisner for the chemical laboratory; by the children of Theresa Loeb, deceased, for the greenhouse, nor by Mr. Sol Block and the family of Ida M. Block, deceased, for the chapel; the amounts contributed by them having been paid by them directly to the builders. The buildings not having been completed at the time of the closing of the books. the amounts of their donations will be included in the next annual report, and the assets of the School are, therefore, in reality, about $4500 greater than is shown by this report.)

At the beginning of the last school year there were in our institution twenty-one students, of whom fifteen were in the second-year class and six in the first-year class. Towards the end of the year 1898 one of the students of the second-year class left us for the purpose of obtaining employment in mercantile pursuits. A few months after his leaving he made application for readmission, and has recently been readmitted to the school in the new class. One of the other students of the second-year class left shortly before the recent summer examination to obtain agricultural employment.

During the present month a third class has been formed, into which four students have been admitted, including the one who had left us last winter.

A Squad of Milkers.

Making Butter.

In view of the fact that the instructors, students and the various other assistants in the work, constitute a very large family, it has been necessary to enlarge our plant in a way that would not be requisite upon a farm of the size of ours, if it were merely managed by a farmer with the ordinary amount of help.

The new system of instruction introduced by the new Dean, Professor E. E. Faville, under whose energetic and competent management the school has been since January, and the increased dormitory room required for the new class, made it necessary to fit up the third story of the main building, which had not been divided into rooms or plastered at the time of its erection.

Various other alterations to the main building involved an expenditure of nearly eight hundred dollars. Through the generosity of several members of the Board cash donations for a portion of this expense were received.

Last Spring our Dean presented to us a plan for a complete dairy plant. His plan was approved by the Board of Directors, and as a result, the construction of various dairy buildings, which will be dedicated to-day, was begun. The number of the cows has been increased, and the necessary improved implements have been secured.

It will thus appear, that many of the expenditures made during the past year were incurred for the absolutely necessary improvement of the plant, and that consequently, our funds to be applied to the maintenance of the institution were decreased to that extent.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSEPH KRAUSKOPF,
RALPH BLUM,
JAMES L. BRANSON,
MORRIS A. KAUFMANN,
ADOLPH EICHHOLZ, Chairman.

Report of the Dean.

In my report permit me to explain briefly the system employed in carrying on the operations of this institution. The work is divided into the following departments, viz.: Farm, Dairy, Veterinary, Horticultural, Chemical and General. In the farm department is included the growing of field crops, the handling of live-stock and the carrying on of the various operations of the farm. In the dairy department is included the "model dairy or creamery" for the study of butter and cheese making. In the dairy barn is taken up the work of the feeding and care of the dairy herd. The veterinary department deals with animal diseases. Our horticultural department takes up the finer part of agriculture in the care and cultivation of plants in the greenhouses and gardens together with the operations attending the orchard and nursery work. The chemical department has just been established, and will be associated with some other agricultural science. The chemistry taught will deal largely with the "chemistry of the farm." In the general department the school work comprises the study of English, mathematics and such of the sciences as botany, bachriology and physics, etc.

We should note that the agriculture of the future must depend more upon mental than physical effort. The scientific farmer is no longer looked upon with a jest, for by his "theory with practice" he has raised this industry to a position of recognition among the professions. Modern civilization in all industries tends towards specialization. Equally true is this in agriculture where the field for specialization is a large one. With the complexities and perplexities confronting the farmer, it is necessary to train our young in the fundamental principles, not to acquire a little of everything, but to know a few things thoroughly and well. The question at once comes, how is this being done? This institution differs from other agricultural schools in that our young men come to us as a rule not physically strong, unused to farm ways or farm life. This might be urged as a disadvantage, but they come to us untrammeled by old-fashioned methods and are thrown in touch with modern methods and ideas, which by continual application for four years, without the interim of vacation, will turn out students thoroughly trained as practical, scientific farmers, raised to the intellectual level of the educated. Our graduates will find positions in the many lines of agriculture. Applications for our young men have already been received. There is a crying demand all through this country for competent men, skilled in the practical and scientific principles of agriculture, to conduct dairies, stock farms, fruit plantations, etc., and there should be no question as to the future of these young men.

Respectfully submitted,

E. E. FAVILLE,

Dean.
